2014 ALIN GENERAL MEETING

VIII. MEETING MINUTES

Seoyoung Lee:

Good morning, ladies and gentlemen. My name is Seoyoung Lee from KLRI. I hope you had a good night's rest after a happy reunion last night at the welcome dinner.

Before we begin, let me make a brief announcement about the receiver. There are interpretation receivers in front of you for your use. Both Korean and English will be spoken at this General Meeting, so please kindly put on the interpretation receiver whenever Korean is spoken.

We have a long day ahead of us, so without a further ado, let me welcome you to 2014 ALIN General Meeting. As an opening ceremony, I would like to invite Dr. Lee, Sang Yoon from KLRI to deliver us an opening address. Please welcome him.

Sang Yoon Lee:

Thank you. Good morning. My name is Sang Yoon Lee, the Director of the Office of Comparative Law Research. It is our honor to host the ALIN General Meeting in Korea, as it celebrates its 10th anniversary. I would like to thank the delegates and participants from ALIN partners for participating in this meeting amidst your busy schedules. Let me also thank the International Association of Legislation (IAL) for having interest in ALIN and joining the meeting as an observer. I hope we will be able to form a cooperative relationship in the future. I would like to acknowledge the staffs of the Office of Comparative Law Research, KLRI who put much effort and time into preparing for this meeting. As you know, the role of Asia is expanding in world politics, culture, history, and legislation. In that regard, today's ALIN General Meeting is all the more significant, and I sincerely hope that the connection between ALIN partner organizations would continue to grow. This concludes the opening address. Thank you.

Seoyoung Lee:

Thank you. Now, let me invite Dr. Lee, Won, the President of KLRI to deliver the welcome address.

Won Lee:

Good morning. I am Lee, Won, the President of KLRI, which is the Secretariat of ALIN. ALIN Master Plan was conceived in 2002 with an aim to promote mutual understanding and cooperation through exchange of legislative information of Asian countries, and, after 2 years of preparation, the Inaugural Meeting took place in 2004. Counting from the Inaugural Meeting, this year celebrates the 10th anniversary of ALIN. At the Inaugural Meeting, 11 Partners from 7 countries participated. During the past 10 years, ALIN has expanded and now have 24 Partners from 16 countries.

ALIN expanded not only in number, but also in various research and exchange activities. As an example, ALIN Partners has been hosting international academic conference every year, in which Partners gathered together to share opinions and hot topics about legislation. Also, there has been nine ALIN Expert Forums, including the one which took place in Gadjah Mada University, Indonesia, in which in-depth discussion on each country's legislative issues were discussed.

Asia Law Review promoted publication of academic articles. In 2011, ALIN Partners jointly published an English-Korean-Mongolian-Russian legal terms dictionary. Total of nine joint research projects were conducted among the scholars and researchers of ALIN Partners.

It seems fair to say that ALIN contributed through various methods to exchange of a vast quantity of legislative information. ALIN was able to grow because of its Partners' active participation and cooperation. As the head of the Secretariat, I sincerely thank all ALIN Partners, and ask for your continued interest in ALIN activities.

It may be said that the last decade has been the time of forming ALIN's frame and its sustainable utility. And now is time to contemplate on the next decade. In the next decade, I hope ALIN would not only continue its size, but also reinforce the already-formed network among Partners and improve the quality of the outcomes therefrom. It could be achieved by the conventional methods of exchanging legislative information and literary research, but also by adopting innovative and creative methods such as interdisciplinary studies, transnational research. Based on this, all ALIN Partners should all aim to suggest each country's direction for legislative development.

In addition, I would also like to suggest expansion of ALIN to beyond the boundary of Asia. Until now, the laws of Asia have received much influence from the laws of other parts of the world, such as Europe, America, and Oceania, as we are all aware, this influence will grow stronger in the future. It would be difficult to fully unfold the potential of ALIN, if we limit its boundary to Asia. Based on the strong network between ALIN Partners, we should strive to collaborate with the research institutes, universities, and associations and walk step by step with the world as a window of Asia's legislative information.

I invite the delegates of ALIN Partners to suggest how ALIN should grow and towards which direction ALIN should move forward. I ask for your active participation in ALIN Expert Forums and joint researches, in addition to international academic conferences and general meetings. Detailed procedure of how to participate in these activities will be explained by the Secretariat. Promotion of mutual understanding and cooperation through exchange of legislative information of Asian countries would be realized only through lively dialog and collaboration. Thank you.

Seoyoung Lee:

Next, let me invite Dr. Park, a senior research fellow of KLRI, to lead us in General Discussion.

Kwang Dong Park:

Good morning. My name is Kwang Dong Park, and I am in charge of management of ALIN. I thank you for coming to ALIN General Meeting this morning. I would like to begin the discussion by introducing the delegates from ALIN Partners.

As the Chairperson, we have Dr. Sang Yoon Lee from KLRI.

Next, we have a delegate from Dhaka University, Bangladesh - Dr. Monsoor. Please give a brief word of greeting.

Tasima Monsoor:

Good morning, everyone. I just arrived. I am very proud to be a part of ALIN. I want development of ALIN and its partners so that we can go beyond the box and we can do plenty of things which we have objectives. And I wish success to this ALIN General Meeting. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next, let me invite Prof. Phalthy Hap from RULE, Cambodia to introduce himself.

Phalthy Hap:

Good morning, everyone. It's my pleasure to attend the GM of ALIN. I hope the meeting will bring us a lot of activity in the coming year - research activities and other collaboration. So I wish success to this meeting. Nice to meet you all.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next is Dean Pripurna from Gadjah Mada University Faculty of Law, Indonesia.

Pariputna Sugarda:

Good morning, everyone. Thank you very much for inviting us here, and thank you very much for having us among the important persons for legal development of Asia. Hopefully the meeting will be successful, and be beneficial to all of us. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next is Dean Pripurna from Gadjah Mada University Faculty of Law, Indonesia.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next is Prof. Kaoru Obata from CALE, Nagoya University, Japan.

Kaoru Obata:

Good morning. My name is Obata. In April, I was appointed as the Director of the Center for Asian Legal Exchange, Nagoya University. It is my first time to attend ALIN General Meeting. It is truly my pleasure to represent the CALE of our university, which is proud to be a member of ALIN. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Prof. Kumar Sinha from ILI, India has just arrived. Please kindly introduce yourself briefly.

Manoj Kumar Sinha:

Good morning, everyone. I am really sorry that I was late because I arrived very late last night. To introduce myself, I am Kumar Sinha, a professor of law and the Director at Indian Law Institute. I am very happy to have a relation with ALIN. ILI and ALIN has been working together in the last couple of years. And we are very happy to bring some publication. This is very famous Annual Survey of Indian Law. It basically covers decisions of the Supreme Court of India and some high courts of India on thematic basis, such as tort law, environmental law, and human rights law. So important decision made by the Supreme Court and have good value as precedent, or if it has moved to a new direction, it is published here. It is very popular among judges and students, so we brought this and give to our organizer. Thank you very much for giving me a chance to be here.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. The arrival of the delegates from Kazakhstan is being delayed. So, for next, let me invite Mr. Jin Hwan Oh from the Center for Asian Law, Korea.

Jin Hwan Oh:

Good morning. I attended ALIN as the Director of the Center for Asian Law, one of ALIN partners. I have been the Director for 2 years, but this is my first attending ALIN General Meeting. I am very honored to be able to be here, and hope to contribute to ALIN. I wish a successful ALIN General Meeting.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next is Prof. Jongbo Park, the Dean of Hanyang University Law School.

Jongbo Park:

Good morning, ladies and gentlemen. I am very glad to see you at this General Meeting. Last year, you warmly allowed Hanyang University Law School to participate in ALIN. As a new member institution, Hanyang Law School will make every effort to make ALIN successful. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next is Prof. Aishah Bidin, the Dean of the National University of Malaysia Faculty of Law.

Aishah Bidin:

Good morning to all. I think the last time I met you was when I joined ALIN last year in Jog Jakarta, so it is my joy to attend this particular session. On behalf of the National University of Malaysia, I extend my greetings from my university, especially the Vice-Chancellor. I think, we also believe and support the role, mission, and vision of ALIN, in terms of dissemination of information and legal knowledge to member countries. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next, we move on to China. Prof. Chen from the East China University of Political Science and Law, please.

Daisong Chen:

Good morning, everybody. Sorry for my lateness. I just arrived and needed time to change. I am from the East China University of Political Science and Law, and I am very glad to attend the General Meeting along with partners from other Asian countries and law schools to get together and discuss ways to improve legal systems in Asia. It is first time for me to attend ALIN General Meeting, so it is my pleasure to have a chance to attend here and learn from other members. I think we can have a great development and make national progress.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next is Prof. Johan, the Dean of Malaya University Faculty of Law, Malaysia.

Johan Sabbaruddin:

Good morning, Mr. President and the members of ALIN. On behalf of the University of Malaya, I thank ALIN and KLRI for bringing all the partners together, and inviting all of us to get together today. And as an earliest member of ALIN, I have seen the organization grow from strength to strength. I think that ever since we started having this meeting, we started developing a new step, a new direction. Since last year, after attending the meeting last year at Jog Jakarta, there have been very significant developments in terms of cooperation. I think this is very good, and I congratulate KLRI and all of us for making ALIN successful. I wish a very successful and prosperous future. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next is Dr. Amarsanaa from the National Legal Institute of Mongolia.

Amarsanaa Batbold:

Good morning, everyone. Good morning, Mr. President. I am representing the National Legal Institute of Mongolia. I am very pleased to be at this year's General Meeting, and wish a success. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next is Prof. Conception from the University of Philippines College of Law.

Danilo Conception:

Good morning to everyone. I am so happy to be here, and to be given the an opportunity to acquaint with you. I am so happy to meet with new friends, those whom I meet for the first time. I just hope that our conference will be very successful, and I hope to be able to contribute something to the success. Thank you very much.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next is Prof. Chen from the National Taiwan University College of Law.

Chung-Wu Chen:

Good morning, dear colleagues. I am so glad to be here, and on behalf of my college, I would like to express our gratitude to KLRI for their invitation and for their preparation for today's invitation. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next is Prof. Boramanand from Chulalongkorn University Faculty of Law.

Nantawat Boramanand:

Good morning. My name is Nantawat Boramanand, and I am from Chulalongkorn University Faculty of Law. I don't speak much English - I mostly speak French because I studied in France. I will try to speak English with you, but please understand that it is sometimes difficult to express my thoughts in English. It is my great pleasure to be with you. I hope this will be successful and I hope to continue our relationship for a long time. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next is Dr. Nicole Chan from the STLC for IIL, Taiwan.

Nicole T. I. Chan:

Good morning, everyone. It is my great pleasure to attend the General Meeting of ALIN and to have an opportunity to meeting you today. My name is Chan, and I was a practicing lawyer of Taiwan in the field of ICT industry and entertainment industry of Taiwan. Last year, I was invited to be a Vice-President and Director General of Institute for Information Industry of Taiwan. My institute is responsible for promoting the ICT industry and information society of Taiwan. So, today, it is my pleasure to be here, and I wish great success of the General Meeting of ALIN, and I hope we'll collaborate together in the near future. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next is Dr. Nguyen from Vietnam Institute of State and Law.

Nhu Phat Nguyen:

Good morning, Mr. President, dear colleagues, and friends. My name is Nguyen Nhu Phat, and I am a director of the Institute of State and Law. We belong to the Academy of Science. Our Institute is an old member of ALIN, and we have been attending the conference, except only last year. This time, I am here, and I hope we have a successful conference. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. That was the delegates from ALIN Partners. We have a few participants from ALIN Partners, whom I wish to introduce. Prof. Lai from East China University of Political Science and Law.

Jinsheng Lai:

Good morning, everyone. This is my second time attending ALIN General Meeting. It is my pleasure to see so many old friends, and, interestingly, we see the same people in different occasions. I hope you enjoy your meeting here and enjoy your stay in Seoul.

Kwang Dong Park:

Next is Prof. Kim from Nagoya University.

Eonsuk Kim:

Good morning, everyone. My name is Eonsuk Kim from Nagoya University. This is my second time attending ALIN. I hope we have a successful meeting and conference. Thank you very much.

Kwang Dong Park:

Also from Nagoya University, Prof. Kuong Teilee.

Teilee Kuong:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. My name is Teilee Kuong from Nagoya University. I have been on and off this conference since 2006. I guess. I was able to meet people and make friends here. I see a lot of new faces, this year. Of course, congratulations on the 10th anniversary of the network. I am sure this is another step forward towards a better future.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Next, we should have participants from Kazakhstan, but their arrival is being delayed. So let me invite Dr. Bui from the Institute of State and Law, Vietnam.

Nguyen Khanh Bui:

Good morning, my name is Bui Khanh from the Institute of State and Law. Now, I am very happy and proud to be here. I wish ALIN General Meeting and Conference will be very successful for us, members of ALIN, new members, and all participants. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Next, we have observers. First, Prof. Sharma from the City University of Hong Kong.

Rajesh Sharma:

Good morning, everyone. If you see me, I'm Indian, but I am coming from HK, representing HK. But I am not looking like Chinese, yet. Though I have stayed in HK for 19 years, please don't ask me to speak in Chinese. I could speak, but there will be no interpretation.

It is my first time attending this conference, but I heard about the meeting and conference from my colleagues from other universities few years ago. I always wanted to join, and I have come. I am lucky and fortunate to be invited by this meeting and to attend this conference as a speaker. But this year, I don't have mandate from my university to say immediately that our university would like to join this network. But I can promise you one thing - when I go back to my university, I will pray and beg to my Dean to join this network, so that we can join this network and do more. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Next is Prof. Ching-Ping Shao from Taiwan.

VIII. MEETING MINUTES

Ching-Ping Shao:

Good morning, everyone. My name is Ching Ping Xiao. I'm an associate professor at the National Taiwan University. And this is my second time attending ALIN conference. I was in Indonesia last year, and it was a great conference. I am looking forward to today's conference. I wish you have a productive meeting. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Next is Ms. Chan from KAS, Singapore.

Marc Spitzkaz:

Good morning, ladies and gentlemen. My name is Marc Spitzkaz from Konrad Adenauer Stiftung. The lady next to me is Ms. Chan. We are from Konrad Adenauer Stiftung. It is based in Singapore but it represents the odd continent of Europe in this context. Konrad has been cooperating with this network since last couple of years. I am very happy to be a part of the gathering.

Kwang Dong Park:

Next, let me introduce the staffs from the Secretariat. First, Attorney Lee, Seoyoung from KLRI. Next, Attorney Choi, Jiyeon from KLRI. Lastly, there is an attendee who has not yet had a chance to introduce himself. Prof. Chachapon from Thailand.

Chachapon Jayaphorn:

Good morning. I am the last and the lost. Good morning, fellows. My name is Chachapon Jayaphorn from Chulalongkorn University. I am a vice-dean responsible for external affairs and also for research. As a vice-dean of external affairs and research, it is great to cooperate and gather with you at ALIN network. Please feel free to talk to me, and with my dean, about ways for cooperation and research.

This meeting reminds me of the second ALIN General Meeting which was arranged in Thailand. At that time, I was one of the members of the steering committee. It was a decade ago. It recalls my memory. I am happy to be here, and I'm glad to cooperate with you. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Currently, as of 2014, ALIN consists of 24 partners from 16 countries. Most institutions are represented here in this meeting. Thank you for your attendance.

Now, let us have a short break for networking. We will resume our meeting in 15 minutes after a coffee break. Thank you.

Seoyoung Lee:

The meeting will resume momentarily. Please kindly return to the room and be seated.

(Break for 15 minutes)

Kwang Dong Park:

Now, let us resume ALIN General Meeting. Firstly, let me report on ALIN activities in 2013-2014. The activities will be introduced in the following order: firstly, ALIN Milestones; secondly, 2013 ALIN GM and International Academic Conference; thirdly, ALIN joint researches; and fourthly, ALIN Expert Forum on Asian Law Series.

Firstly, regarding the Milestones of ALIN - main events that are added to the milestone of ALIN since last General Meeting are as following. In September, 2013, ALIN GM and International Academic Conference took place at Gadjah Mada University, Indonesia. At the GM,

VIII. MEETING MINUTES

Renmin University, Dhaka University, and the National University of Malaysia obtained official approval for their membership to ALIN. In October and December, 2013 and in June 2014, ALIN Expert Forums on Asian Law took place. I will introduce these events in detail later. I will brief on the 2013 ALIN GM and the International Academic Conference, in which most of the attendees here participated. ALIN GM and International Academic Conferences has been held in the past years, as you see on the screen. As I mentioned previously, last year, last ALIN GM was hosted by the University of Gadjah Mada, Indonesia. Main details are as you see on the screen.

The theme of the International Academic Conference, which also was hosted by the University of Gadjah Mada, was the Role of Law in Economic Development. There were three sessions, and the researchers from ALIN Partners presented on the role of law in economic development in Malaysia, Indonesia, and Korea. These are the photos taken from the event.

Secondly, KLRI, the Secretariat of ALIN, has been conducting joint researches with ALIN Partners in the past couple of years. In 2013-2014, joint researches resulted in a number of research reports. As you are aware, ALIN joint researches are initiated by on-line application and suggestion via ALIN website. In 2013, through the on-line system, two research projects were carried out.

As a side note, the ALIN website was improved in terms of its function and contents, so that Partners could communicate with one another more conveniently.

Going back to ALIN joint research, the first research project in 2013 was conducted with NIJ, Mongolia on the consumer protection laws of Mongolia and Korea. Participated researchers include Ms. Seoyoung Lee from KLRI, Dr. Lundendorj from NIJ and others. The second research project was conducted with the East China University of Political Science and Law on the consumer protection laws of China and Korea. Participated researchers include Ms. Jiyeon Choi from KLRI, Dr. He and Dr. Lin from ECUPL.

In 2014, as you see, total of four research projects are planned. These research projects are to be carried out with Tashkent State Law Institute of Uzbekistan, Chulalongkorn University of Thailand, Gadjah Mada University of Indonesia, and Indian Law Institute, respectively. In 2015, similarly to previous years, we will conduct joint research with ALIN Partners, and we ask for your active participation. Also, I would be grateful if the delegates here would go back to your institution and inform your colleagues about this joint research opportunity.

Next is ALIN Expert Forum on Asian Law. Since last GM, the 6th ALIN Expert Forum was hosted by KLRI in Seoul with the theme of the Role of Law in Asian Economic Growth. The photos of the speakers and discussants are shown in the slide. The 7th ALIN Expert Forum took place in October, 2013, and it was hosted also by KLRI and took place in Seoul. The topic of Application of Legislative Impact Assessment in Korea was discussed with participants from Thailand. The photos are shown on the screen.

The 8th Forum took place in December, 2013, with the theme of Current Legal Issues in Asian Countries. It was also hosted by KLRI in Seoul. Six speakers from Malaysia, Mongolia, Singapore, Taiwan, Thailand, and Russia spoke on the current legal issues in each respective country, and six Korean discussants shared their opinions on the presentations. The photos from the 8th Forum are shown here.

The 9th ALIN Expert Forum took place in June, 2014 at Gadjah Mada University, Indonesia with the theme of Land Rights Law in Asian Countries. Speakers and discussants from Indonesia, Cambodia, and Korea participated and discussed on the land rights law of each country. The photos taken at the 9th Forum are shown here.

The 10th ALIN Expert Forum is planned to be held in October this year. We plan to invite experts from Indonesia, Malaysia, Taiwan to discuss on current issues in ICT laws. Although we hope to invite experts from all ALIN Partners to expert forums; however, due to various limitations, we regret that we cannot do so. However, the outcomes of the expert forums will be posted on the website to be shared with all Partners.

This concludes my report on ALIN activities. Let us now move on to General Discussion. There are two agendas to be discussed.

Firstly, we need to elect the host for next year's GM and International Conference. I would like to ask if there is any delegate who wish to host next year's GM and International Conference.

Aishah Bidin:

According to the list, Malaysia has never hosted, yet. So on behalf of Malaysia and the National University of Malaysia, I would be happy and glad to host next year's GM and International Conference at Kuala Lumpur, if there is no objection. Thank you.

were suggested: firstly, application of international criminal code; secondly, gender and family law issues; and, thirdly, unfair contract in farming and development.

In addition, I wish to mention that ALIN website has been improved. If you have not yet joined the online membership, please do so for convenient exchange of information and smooth communication.

Next, regarding ALIN Expert Forum on Asian Law, is there anyone who wish to suggest a topic for next year's forums? If you don't have any at the moment, you may contact the secretariat later to make suggestions.

So, I have reported on ALIN activities in 2013-2014, and had a general discussion. Next, the secretariat has a brief announcement. ALIN is celebrating its 10th anniversary, and to congratulate on ALIN's decade and for mutual cooperation, the Chairmen of the International Association of Legislation has joined us as a guest. So let me invite Dr. Voermans to come up and deliver his greeting and congratulatory speech.

Wim Voermans:

Ladies and gentlemen, I feel very privileged to be able to meet you in this esteemed company of 24 institutes from 16 nations. I think we are twin sisters, ALIN and the International Association of Legislation, consisting of 22 institutions from 14 nations. What we do is we are a network platform for people who are academically or in practice working in field of legislation. We hold a world-wide bi-annual conferences, so in very two year we have a big conference. We are very glad and feel very privileged to have it this year here in Seoul, after we had it in Russia two years ago. We feel very pleased and privileged to liaise with ALIN because, I think, we share common interests and common network worldwide. Last night at the dinner speech, I said legislation is very important. Of course, it is. Why is it important? Liberal democratic countries all over the world, it is the cement which wells together an economy. We believe that economy evolves around capital, labor, and produce. But in fact, all economies around the world have one basis. That basis is called trust. Trust will bring honor and confidence. Trust that government - or someone - will intervene when rules laid out are violated. So, this trust is very important. That is why you have voted for the theme of the conference this afternoon which has to do with law and economic model. I heard that in September you had a conference here on role of law in Asian economic growth. That is what law and legislation does in a society. They promote trust. And that is very important, and we cannot stress that enough. IAL works in the field as well. Two years ago, we were here in KLRI conference on impact assessment. Basically that is all the same sides of the coin - however you wish to phrase our mutual interests. It is, therefore, that I hereby invite you to tomorrow's conference as well. We will have our bi-annual conference of IAL. You are all welcome there. It will be on innovation of legislative processes. We are going to look world-wide, and what is happening in electronic promulgation, electronic drafting, and things like that. Please all feel very welcome. Again, thank you for letting me here. I will see you again this afternoon, and also tomorrow. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Now, this will conclude 2014 ALIN General Meeting.

Seoyoung Lee:

Thank you all for your undivided attention throughout the meeting. Before we dismiss, let us take a group photo. Please come up to the front.

Kwang Dong Park:

ALIN Partners respect and love each other, so I suppose no one objects.

Kwang Dong Park:

So, 2015 ALIN Conference and GM will be hosted by UKM. Further details will be discussed between UKM and KLRI.

Next, regarding ALIN activities in 2015, I would like to ask for delegates' opinion on possible joint research topics. Alternatively, you may suggest any topic to us later through ALIN website. Would anyone like to suggest a topic now?

Manoj Kumar Sinha:

I have been thinking for a long time. That is the Rome Statute. There is a voice from the international community that the response of Asian countries is very late. When we're talking about the Rome Statute, very few states have joined the Roman Statute. Roman Statute is a statute which creates an international criminal code. So I urge that we think why Asian countries are not coming positively for the Roman Statute. There is a need for a research on the response of Asian countries towards international criminal code, and how the number of signatory can be increased, and what are the issues and challenges, and why Asian countries are hesitant towards becoming a part of the Roman Statute. I think a lot of international organizations will support us. Thanks.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. We heard a suggestion from our Indian delegate that we look into international criminal code, including issues such as how to deal with international criminal cases and how to respond to them. This has always been an issue in the international community, and we will review this topic as a candidate for next year's joint research topic. Is there anyone else who wants to suggest a joint research topic?

Taslima Monsoor:

I really wanted to say about gender and family law because gender is an issue which affects 50% of the population. There has been no research about gender in the last six years. I think there can be a comparative study, say, between countries like Malaysia and Bangladesh, or Korea and Bangladesh... and it can be on gender and family law. These are very tricky and sentimental issues, but issues of real life and reality which have to be addressed. And I think ALIN research on gender and family law would be fantastic. I think it can open up an opportunity for women of the world, globally. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

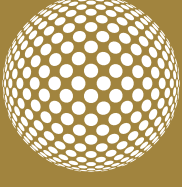

Thank you. Prof. Monsoor from Dhaka University suggested a topic on gender and family law issues. There is a need for research in gender and family law in Korea, and, a comparative research with another country is also much needed. In conducting ALIN joint research, we will look into this topic as a candidate, as well. Is there anyone else?

Paripurna P. Sugarda:

I am thinking about the contract farming. A lot of contractors and developers come to rural areas and join together with the farmers in the area, and they collaborate to develop and cultivate and grow plants. It'd be interesting to see the relationship between the gap between a party with knowledge, capital, power and a party with almost nothing. I think it'd be an interesting topic. Thank you.

Kwang Dong Park:

Thank you. Prof. Sugarda suggested unfair contract issues in the area of farming and rural development. In this area of law, customary law is also applicable, so the relationship between law and custom may also have to be dealt. This topic will also be considered as a candidate topic for next year's ALIN joint research. Is there anyone else who wants to suggest a topic? If not, let me summarize. Total of three topics

GENERAL MEETING

X. APPENDICES

CHARTER OF THE ASIA LEGAL INFORMATION NETWORK

ON-LINE NETWORK BUILDING AND OPERATION
REGULATION

JOINT ACADEMIC ACTIVITIES PROMOTION
REGULATION

PREAMBLE

The representatives of research institutions in the Asian region attending the Inaugural General Meeting of the Asia Legal Information Network held in 2005 fully recognized that the establishment of the said Network would contribute greatly to making legal information, the results of relevant research and any other related knowledge as held and managed by each of those institutions available to all of them, agreed that the activities of the Asia Legal Information Network should be very important and helpful in developing legal systems and promoting the relevant research in the Asian region, and declared that they shall actively participate in and support such activities.

Article 1 (Organization) There shall be established the Asia Legal Information Network (hereinafter referred to as the "ALIN") to be composed of governmental agencies, legal system-related research institutions, jurisprudence-related educational institutions and other legal information-related institutions in the Asian region (hereinafter referred to as the "Partners") which take charge of the business of collecting, managing and researching laws, judicial precedents and any other legal information (hereinafter referred to as the "legal information") and which consent to the purposes of the ALIN and voluntarily participate therein.

Article 2 (Purposes) The purposes of the ALIN is to exchange materials and research results concerning legal information held by the Partners by forming an integrated human and material network, and to promote cooperation among related researchers and staff members through paying exchange visits. In short, it aims to build a horizontal network to maximize the effective value of legal information and research results held by each of the Partners by sharing such information and results among all of them in on-line or off-line areas.

Article 3 (Functions) The ALIN shall perform the following functions:

1. Establishing a network to enable human and material exchange among the Partners;
2. Building and operating any on-line system on Internet for the exchange of legal information and research-related materials;
3. Promoting joint research on legal systems and holding relevant academic conferences;
